

MINES AND RAILS LEAD DEVELOPMENT

Co-operation of S. P. With Mines Increases Business and Population

The vast, wealth-laden territory west of the Rocky Mountains owes its development primarily to two agencies—Mining and Railroad.

The attention of the world was first attracted to the West with the announcement of the discovery of gold. A great influx of people followed and the tales of the resources and possibilities in the West spread to all parts of the globe.

The one great obstacle in the way of development was the lack of transportation facilities. The long, perilous voyage around Cape Horn in "windjammers" mitigated against any considerable interchange of commerce.

Fortunately there were captains of industry and finance possessed of broad vision, courage and sufficient faith in the future of the West to conceive and bring to completion great systems of transcontinental railways. Among these the Southern Pacific were the first lines.

For many years there were nothing but main lines of railroads through the mining territory and the ores and rich minerals were transported to the railways by mules, donkeys and horses from mines far back in the mountains. The placer mining camps of the early days were about the only ones located adjacent to the railroad.

In the last twenty-five years the greater mining development on the Southern Pacific has been in Nevada and in Arizona and New Mexico. Operations in these districts have resulted in very heavy movements of mining supplies such as concentrating, smelting and other treating machinery, explosives, timbers and fuel.

There also has developed a very heavy outbound tonnage of bullion and other finished or semi-finished mineral products from the mines.

S. P. Co-Operates

The policy of the Southern Pacific always has been to co-operate in the development of these properties. In doing so it has followed the plan of publishing reasonable freight rates on the materials and supplies used in the mines and in the treatment of the products of the mines, with low rates on the ores or on the manufactured products out of the smelters.

In the adjustment of rates on the products of the mines it has been the policy to establish schedules based upon the values of the product. The principle has been recognized that a producer of ore worth $100 a ton can afford to pay a higher charge than can the producer of ore valued at $20. This has been done in recognition of the fact that the great bulk of the ores transported would be of lesser value and with the view of encouraging the greatest possible production of low grade ores, so that in the aggregate would be transported sufficient volume of tonnage to afford a reasonable return on the investment.

The company also has encouraged to the fullest extent the treatment of minerals at the point of production.

These policies have resulted in the maintenance of the closest possible feeling of co-operation between mine owners and the railroad, bringing about constantly increasing population in the mountain and desert regions, with development in the thriving industrial cities, where only a few years ago there was nothing but struggling mining camps.

Twenty-five years ago both mining and railroad development in Arizona were in their infancy. Then the assessed value of all railroads operating within the state was less than $3,000,000, while the assessed value of mining property of all description was less than $2,000,000.

MORE MEN THAN WOMEN HAVE APPENDICITIS

Medical reports show men are more subject to appendicitis although many sudden cases occur among women. It can be guarded against by preventing intestinal infection. The intestinal antiseptic, Adler-i-ka, acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing all foul, decaying matter which might cause infection. It brings out matter you never thought was in your system and which may have been poisoning you for months. Adler-i-ka is EXCELLENT for gas on the stomach Kingman Drug Co. (Adv.)

No wonder the Rexall Store is popular. Kingman Drug Co. is giving away a $125.00 set of silver and everyone is given a chance.

BIG CATTLE SHIPMENTS

Since last Saturday close to 2,000 head of cattle has been shipped from Hackberry. Last Saturday George W. Miller shipped 600 head of fine steers, and the Fanchers, Stephens, Duncans, Bulkley, and others are shipping this week. The cattle had to be held the past two weeks awaiting cars, and it is only at this time that enough cars could be brought in to supply the demand. When taken from the ranges the cattle are said to have been in fine shape, because of the excellent condition of all ranges in this county.

America's Food and Medicine May Go for Naught if Russians Cannot Secure Clothing

"If Russia's children, and adults as well, are to be saved from death this winter from exposure—after the charity of America has brought them through the famine of last winter, they must be supplied with clothing." This is a consensus of opinion of the American Relief Administration staff in Russia, from Colonel Haskell down to the inspectors, according to their reports to Herbert Hoover, head of the A. R. A.

From every part of Russia where the A. R. A. has been feeding children and adults, and has been instituting sanitation and medical service and inoculations to save literally millions of lives, the story is the same—that the children lack even the bare essentials of underwear, shoes, stockings or outer wear, with which to protect themselves against the rigors of the Russian winter. And the need of aid in this direction for adults, too, is indicated by statements of recently returned workers, who state that in cases where Russian employees have been given a blanket for extra services the blankets have almost invariably been made into overcoats. Literally millions of children, say reports, have no shoes—an item which in itself may make it impossible for them to go to American Relief child-feeding kitchens. Free shoes and stockings have been provided for 250,000 children who are absolutely without footwear, but the whole problem is beyond the reach of any general funds now available.

The American Relief Administration, to meet this emergency, has put into effect a Clothing Remittance, functioning in every way as does the now world famous Hoover Food Remittance. For twenty dollars, sent to the A. R. A. at 42 Broadway, New York, the following articles, or their equivalent in value, will be delivered to any designated person in Russia: 4 2-3 yard fifty-six inch twenty ounce dark blue wool cloth; 4 yards of thirty-two inch black cotton lining; 8 yards of twenty-seven inch flannel; 16 yards of unbleached muslin; 8 large black ivory buttons; 16 small black ivory buttons; 16 small white bone buttons; 2 spools No. 30 black cotton thread; 2 spools No. 40 white cotton thread.

One package will clothe one adult or two children all winter, and remittances ordered for general relief will be used for neediest cases thousands of which are heart-breaking.

ROTARY CLUB IS ORGANIZED IN KINGMAN

also stated that of the number of clubs heretofore founded there had not yet been one failure and that though Kingman was one of the smallest towns to have a club no failure was expected here.

Rotary represents simply the idea of service—the chief pledge of its members being to see that they shall consider "service before self" and that their example and their work for the community, their business or profession and toward individuals they shall give practical demonstration of the fact that "he profits most who serves best."

The eighty thousand Rotarians in the world, to which number a representative group of business and professional men of this city have just been added, developed in the last seventeen years from a meeting of four men February 23, 1905 in the office of Paul P. Harris, a lawyer, in Chicago.

Harris, who is still a member of the Chicago Rotary Club, is looked upon as the "Father of Rotary." He had the original idea of forming a club that would promulgate the spirit of service and would be different from any existing organization. Associated with him at that first meeting were Silvester Schiele, H. E. Shorey, and Gus A. Loehr. The test of the idea came with another meeting which drew to Rotary such men as Harry Ruggles, Rufe Chapin, Charlie Newton, Will Jensen, "Doc" Neff, Bernard Arntzen, and Albert White—men who now as then represent a dynamic force of organization and ability which has been of inestimable value to Rotary throughout the world.

The idea they evolved and fostered to the point where it actually became a world force was an organization which would consist of one man from each business or profession who would meet in rotation at various places at frequent intervals and discuss various questions that might come up from time to time, become better acquainted with each other, the problems of the business of each as it affected the life of the community and for good fellowship. It was agreed to promote fellowship one important step would be to call each man by his first name or nickname—to make it compulsory that this should be done.

The name "Rotary Club" was adopted shortly after the first meeting because the members met in rotation in the offices of each other.

The Chicago Club continued to increase in membership. In 1908—three years after the first meeting—the second Rotary club was organized in San Francisco. Other clubs followed on the Pacific Coast and then the movement spread to the East and then to the South until sixteen clubs had been organized by the end of 1910.

It was in 1910 that the first convention was held in Chicago and the "National Association" formed. At this convention Chesley R. Perry was elected secretary and he continues to hold this office at the present time. Rotary emerged from a national organization to an international organization two years later at the Duluth convention. A short time previous to this convention a club had been organized at Winnipeg, Canada, and during the convention a cablegram was received from the Rotary Club of London, England, asking for a charter. Rotary had thus quickly evolved from one club in 1905 to an international organization in 1912.

Since 1912 the organization has grown even more rapidly than during the first seven years. Today there are more than one thousand Rotary Clubs in the world. Altho the greater number are in the United States, where the movement originated, there are now Rotary clubs in Canada, Newfoundland, Great Britain and Ireland, Cuba, South America, the Republic of Panama, China, India, Australia, and New Zealand. This growth seems all the more remarkable when we realize that the organization has never at any time employed paid organizers. And in addition, extreme care has always been exercised in surveying cities and towns applying for membership to make sure that such communities are ready for a Rotary Club and are of sufficient size from which to secure a membership of representative men and still have the membership restricted to one man from each business or profession.

JAMES A. ROBERTS DIED LAST SUNDAY

James A. Roberts, one of the heavy shareholders in the Frisco Mines company, died at his home in New York City last Sunday, death being due to old age and a complication of disorders. Mr. Roberts was controller of the state of New York when the writer was a young fellow working on the newspapers of that state, and was considered one of the finest men then in the political game. For years he was active in real estate and legal affairs and had a wide circle of friends. He was well known in Kingman, having visited this place quite often in the years gone by.

Mr. Roberts was a genial, whole-souled fellow and his death will be regretted by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

THIS AUTO WAS SAFE

A strange sight was seen Sunday afternoon down by the Harvey House. This sight was a car with "Danger Keep Away" painted on the side and well might that sign be where it was for fastened on the trunk body of the car was a number of cages containing one full grown mountain lion, one cub, a large black bear and several dogs. Danger is right in this case. Evidently the owner of the car rested in peace while he was away from his car. No fear of having his car stolen at all.

ELLIOTT'S STORE NEWS

BOND THEIR MINES

W. P. Carr and M. A. Sawyer this week gave an option on their mining claims, in the Cedar Valley district, to T. F. McAvoy. Mr. McAvoy expects to begin work on the claims right away and will work the ore in the Berkeley mill. The ore carries values in silver and lead and the vein is important in size. At the present time Mr. McAvoy is operating the Berkeley property, having unwatered the old shaft and preparing for deeper development.

Some one has got to win that chest of silver at Kingman Rexall Store. It might as well be you. (Adv.)

CHRISTMAS SALE

Thanksgiving, with all its good things, is past and now there will be but a few swiftly passing days until the joyous Christmas time is with us once more. My! but there seems to be numberless gifts to prepare but don't forget that so many hours of work may be saved if you will only attend the Christmas Sale on Saturday. There you will find those lovely hand made gifts you have been wishing for and at such attractive prices that they will be within the reach of everyone. The ladies will be so glad to show you appropriate gifts for all including the kiddies.

The mince meat is gaining a reputation, such a good one in fact, that the Guild has been obliged to make more, so they will be able to fill all orders at the Sale. The fruit cakes will add the finishing touch to your Christmas dinner, so do not overlook them.

Remember the time and the place—Saturday at 2 P. M. at the Chocolate Shop.

The Ladies of Trinity Mission Guild will appreciate your patronage.

McBEAN DIES

George N. McBean, who was appointed receiver for the Tennessee mine, about two years ago, but who was unable to get possession of the property through other proceedings, died last Wednesday at the state hospital at Phoenix. Mr. McBean was stricken about a year ago and since that time was confined in the hospital in an incurable condition. He had resided in Arizona a number of years and at the election two years ago was an active supporter of Senator Ralph Cameron. He was a druggist by profession and worked in drugstores at Phoenix and Holbrook. It is understood that he has a case in court against Ralph Cole, who was the optionee of the Tennessee mines a few years ago, this case growing out of the trusteeship.
